

G 652D Long-Distance Optical Cable

Article Overview

G.652D optical fiber is a low-water peak single-mode fiber ideal for long-distance transmission, widely used in telecom, FTTH, and data center networks, with direct sales available from major manufacturers.

Overview of G.652D Fiber

G.652D is the most widely deployed single-mode optical fiber standard, defined by ITU-T, and optimized for low water peak attenuation across 1260–1625 nm wavelengths, making it compatible with CWDM and DWDM systems for high-bandwidth long-distance transmission . Its macrobending resistance and optimized dispersion characteristics ensure reliable performance in dense cable layouts and high-speed networks such as 10G, 40G, and 100G Ethernet . This makes it suitable for long-haul backbone networks, metro networks, and FTTH deployments.

Market and Availability

The global G.652D market is experiencing high demand and supply constraints due to 5G rollout, AI infrastructure, hyperscale data centers, and drone applications . In 2025, G.652D accounted for over 58% of newly installed single-mode fiber globally, with deployments exceeding 680 million fiber-km . Current market conditions in 2026 show rapid price fluctuations and tight availability, particularly for high-performance bare fiber and indoor distribution cables . Leading manufacturers like GL FIBER and Hengtong Global offer direct sales and high-volume supply, often through B2B channels such as Alibaba or regional distributors
