

How much does a residential electrical distribution box cost in the Bahamas

Article Overview

A basic electrical distribution box in the Bahamas can cost anywhere from B$6 for small PVC boxes to several hundred dollars for full residential or commercial distribution panels, depending on specifications and installation.

Local Retail Prices

For small electrical boxes and covers, local Bahamian retailers such as Kelly's House & Home list prices starting around B$6 to B$7 per unit for standard PVC or molded boxes, such as a 2-gang PVC molded old work box (B$6.35) or a ceiling box (B$6.75) (prices exclude VAT) . These are typically used for individual outlets, switches, or small circuits rather than full distribution panels.

Residential Distribution Panels

For full residential distribution boxes (panel boards), costs are significantly higher. Standard single-family home panels, including the enclosure, breakers, and wiring, generally range from $450 to $1,500 USD, depending on amp rating, number of circuits, and labor complexity . Installation costs in the Bahamas may vary based on local labor rates and accessibility.
