

Huawei Access Layer Switch Pricing

Article Overview

Huawei access layer switches typically range from a few hundred to several thousand USD depending on model, port count, PoE capability, and speed options.

Overview of Huawei Access Switches

Huawei offers a variety of access layer switches suitable for enterprise campuses, data centers, and cloud-driven networks. Popular series include the CloudEngine S5730 and S5735, which provide Layer 3 routing, PoE+, advanced security, and virtualization features . These switches are designed for medium to large enterprises, supporting high throughput, low latency, and energy-efficient operation .

Price Ranges

- Entry-level access switches (e.g., 24-48 ports, 1G, non-PoE) typically start around $300-$800 USD per unit .
- Mid-range switches with PoE+ support, Layer 3 features, and higher port density can range from $800-$2,000 USD .
- High-end access switches (10G/40G uplinks, advanced stacking, AI-driven management) may cost $2,000-$5,000 USD or more, depending on configuration and optional features like MACsec encryption or network slicing .

Key Features Affecting Price

- Port Count and Speed: More ports and higher speeds (10G/40G) increase cost.
- PoE/PoE++ Support: Higher wattage for powering devices like APs or PTZ cameras adds to price....
