

Lithuanian Optical Cable Manufacturer Inquiry

Article Overview

Key suppliers of fiber optic cables in Lithuania include Max. Telecentras, Workshop of Photonics (WOP), Altechna, Mainsec, and Optogama, offering both standard and custom optical solutions.

Leading Suppliers

Max. Telecentras is a state-owned company providing a wide range of telecommunications services, including fiber optic cable solutions, data transmission, and network infrastructure support, making it a primary supplier for large-scale projects in Lithuania . Workshop of Photonics (WOP) specializes in ultra-high precision laser micromachining for optical fibers, including custom-shaped tip fibers and femtosecond laser drilling. They cater to both industrial and scientific applications, offering highly specialized fiber processing services . Altechna focuses on custom-optimized laser optics and fiber-related components, such as fiber end caps with low absorption and high laser-induced damage thresholds (LIDT), ensuring excellent optical performance for advanced networking or research applications . Mainsec acts as a distributor of telecommunications solutions, including fiber optic cables, copper cables, and in-building wireless systems. They collaborate with leading vendors to provide innovative products across the Baltic region . Optogama manufactures advanced optical equipment and components, including custom lasers and systems across various spectral ranges, which can complement fiber optic infrastructure projects requiring integrated optical solutions
