

Singapore Bus Connector

Article Overview

Singapore's bus network provides extensive connectivity across the island, linking residential, commercial, and transport hubs with MRT stations and other bus services.

Overview of Bus Connectivity

Singapore's bus system operates under a hub-and-spoke model, where buses serve as key links for first- and last-mile connections to MRT stations and other transport nodes ( ). Major bus interchanges act as central hubs, often integrated with MRT stations and commercial developments, providing air-conditioned passenger facilities and seamless transfers ( ). Smaller bus terminals serve as regional endpoints for specific routes, while a few roadside terminals exist for limited services ( ).

Bus Routes and Planning

The bus network covers the entire island, with services operated by both public and private operators ( ). Commuters can access interactive maps and route planners to find nearby bus stops, plan journeys, and check connections with MRT lines ( ). Long-standing services, such as Service 14, demonstrate continuous improvements in route coverage and commuter convenience ( ).

Real-Time Tracking and Mobile Tools

Singapore offers real-time bus tracking through platforms like BusGoWhere and Busio, allowing commuters to monitor bus arrivals, plan multi-modal journeys, and receive service alerts ( ). These tools enhance connectivity by helping passengers c...
